

different views on the data:
different applications get to see different subsets of the data definition of the all the tables and relationship in the database the actual way the data is stored hidden from the applications