

The screenshot shows the 'Table Design' view in Microsoft Access. The table has three columns: 'customer', 'amount', and 'ordered'. A right-click context menu is open over the 'amount' column, with 'Insert Column' selected. This opens a secondary menu showing various control types. A red arrow points from the 'amount' column to the 'Insert Column' option, and another red arrow points from the 'List Box' option in the secondary menu to the right. The 'List Box' option is currently highlighted with a mouse cursor. The bottom status bar shows 'Record 1 of 1' and navigation icons.
